RESPONSIVE SOLUTIONS WORLDWIDE

Finding a global manufacturing partner that understands the critical nature of what you do — and produces the highest-quality components possible to meet those needs — is essential to your success. Mercury Products has helped customers achieve peak performance since 1946 by delivering the very best in metal stampings, fabrications and custom-engineered products.

You need it. We make it.

Whatever your metal stamping and fabrication needs, Mercury Products meets them with the power of more than 60 years of experience. We have multi-lingual, degreed engineers working in every department, and in our facilities worldwide, to help you create the exact part you need. Our leading-edge, fully automatic technology allows us to achieve cost-effective solutions for every application. And our broad capabilities make anything possible.

Quality through and through.

When it comes to your application, every single part is important. So Mercury has created processes that not only increase efficiency and reliability, but ensure the highest-quality product possible. From EDI submission through delivery, Mercury provides a single point of contact and infuses quality throughout the manufacturing chain. It's why some of the largest manufacturers in the world trust us with their business. Need something you don't see? Just ask us. We're happy to deliver a custom-engineered solution.

Our commitment to you.

Mercury Products is dedicated to exceptional quality and "can-do" customer service. From our in-house tooling capabilities, to our design and engineering assistance, to our global responsiveness, everything we do is done to make your application successful.
